the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million (1990–2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people.

The strategy is based on the following principles: (1) older people should be able to live independently in their own homes; (2) older people should be able to participate in the community; (3) older people should be able to access the services they need; and (4) older people should be able to live in a safe and secure environment.

The strategy is a key document in the development of policy for older people. It sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people and provides a framework for the development of services for older people.
