1. The first of the two is the "General" or "Common" type, which is the most common and is found in all parts of the world. It is characterized by a broad, flat, and somewhat irregular shape, with a slightly raised rim. The surface is usually smooth, but may have some small pits or indentations. The color is a light brown or tan, and the texture is slightly rough. It is often found in small quantities, but can also be found in larger amounts.
